School Boards Delay Decision On Vo-Ed Plan

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Two state school boards, grappling fruitlessly with a mammoth vocational educational plan, have delayed a decision until they meet jointly June 24.

It was a tough way to break in for the state Board of Occupational Education, which held its first meeting Tuesday.

The discussion of the plan was put off after hours of discussion with the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education, a sister group.

Members of both boards expressed criticism of the plan, an attempt to coordinate vocational schooling throughout the state.

One complaint was that revisions and highlights were not made available to board members, but this was expected to be remedied in the next couple of weeks.

Aside from those difficulties, there was disagreement over whether the federal government really is rigid in its deadline of July 1 to submit the plan.

The vocational proposals were drawn up before Gov. Julian Carroll created the occupational board last month, and some board members said they could not grasp it yet.

"I still want to know as a country boy what's in this (no matter how long it takes)," said John H. Gray of Madisonville, chairman of the new board.

Dr. James Graham, superintendent of public instruction and executive officer of both state boards, said U.S. education officials could penalize Kentucky by cutting off federal aid if the vocational document were not submitted in time.

Henry Pogue of Fort Thomas, a member of the other state board, said he doubted it would come to that. He said he wanted more details on the vocational organization aspect.

"I take full responsibility for everything in this book," Graham said. There also was confusion about whether vocational experts in the state Department of Education had revised the document and, if so, how.

The Rev. Robert Brown of Lexington, chairman of the regular state school board, said the only issue was to approve, reject or amend the vocational plan.

At that point, both boards discussed it but gave up temporarily after a flurry of suggestions and motions.

Another question arose concerning the power of the boards over vocational education. Graham said the governor has informed him that the vocational board "could take charge and approve the plan," though both boards indicated willingness to do so jointly.

And there were some technical hitches—such as whether the new board actually comes into official existence July 1 rather than May 27 when it was created by the governor.

Education Department attorney Ed Fossett said "this has given me much concern," but that he agrees with Carroll that both boards should have a well-defined role in the vocational field.

Graham indicated that responsibilities along this line were rather vague when the governor issued his executive order setting up the new board.

He indicated Carroll would issue a second order within weeks to "clarify" the roles of the boards, but did not elaborate.

However, one source said that future clashes will have to be averted in instances where both boards might claim jurisdiction.

On the surface, one board handles only vocational schools while the other deals with elementary and secondary schools.

Melodrama To Be Presented By Community Theatre Group

The Community Theatre will present the melodrama "Curse You, Jack Dalton" Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the old L and N Railroad Depot on Railroad Avenue.

The play is being directed by Richard Valentine and will begin each night at 7:30 p. m. Admission price is $1 each.

The villain is played by Col. John E. O'Brien. The heroine is played by Terri Erwin. Mrs. Margaret Porter is the aristocratic matron, Barbara Bliven is her daughter, William Phillips is the hero, Leesha Hazel is the friend of the villain, and Dr. Bryan L. Thacker is the brother of the heroine.

There will also be pre-show entertainment each night, with such features as a jazz band and banjo soloist.

The old L and N Freight Depot was built in 1907 of Victorian architecture. Its use as a depot has been terminated, and plans call for the moving of the landmark structure to the new city-county park. There it will be the location of many of the Community Theatre productions as well as other future community activities.

"We invite everyone from this area to come and enjoy a fun evening of entertainment," a spokesman for the theatre group urged.

Compromise Urged On Water Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd declared today that Congress could not override a veto of a public works bill and urged legislators to compromise on 17 water projects President Carter wants to kill.

Byrd said the narrow 218-194 House vote Tuesday to continue funding the projects shows that "a veto cannot be overridden." A two-thirds majority is needed to override a veto.

to be put forward to work out a compromise between the executive and the Congress," Byrd said.

If Carter vetoes the bill, as he has said he might, "we would have to do our work all over again and it would be a waste of time," he said.

Asked why the President should compromise, since the House vote appeared to have strengthened his position, the West Virginia senator said, "I can't speak for him, but over the long term it seems to me there is room for compromise."

Meanwhile, a Senate subcommittee went behind closed doors today to discuss the $10.2 billion, public works appropriation bill which contains funds for the water projects.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the subcommittee on public works appropriations, said the closed meeting was needed to deal with "highly sensitive" issues affecting nuclear reactor development and other matters.

Stennis said another matter to be debated in the closed session would be a motion by Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., to recommend a $150 million appropriation for the Clinch River breeder reactor in Tennessee.

President Carter wants to stop work on the breeder reactor program on grounds it could contribute to the spread of nuclear weapons. The reactors produce plutonium, which can be used to make bombs. A House committee voted Tuesday to proceed with the reactor.

The subcommittee also had before it a motion by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to strike funds for production of an "enhanced radiation" nuclear warhead designed to kill people rather than destroy military installations.

The 218-194 vote on funding 16 of the projects was unexpectedly close Tuesday, apparently surprising even White House aides. One said the administration expected to have only 175 votes on the issue.

The key House vote on the projects came on an amendment to eliminate 16 projects in 15 states from the measure. The amendment did not attempt to eliminate funding for a 17th project Carter opposes, the Auburn Dam in California.

The decision to fund the water projects came as the House worked on a $10.2 billion public works appropriations bill, passed on a vote of 356-54.

A Senate subcommittee was expected to vote today on staff recommendations that reportedly call for eliminating eight of the 17 disputed projects the House approved.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter was pleased by the House vote, even though it went against his wishes. The spokesman said the vote "indicates substantial sympathy" for efforts to hold down spending.

Asked whether Carter would veto the measure, Powell said, "It's certainly our hope he will not be faced with a situation in which he has to exercise the veto."

A lobbyist working against the water projects, Brent Blackwelder of the Environmental Policy Center, said the close House vote would mean "more than eight dumped on the Senate side."

"This was a victory," said Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., one of the sponsors of the amendment to cut spending for the projects, said "It was a real victory."

Supporters of the amendment had said they did not believe it would pass, but were hopeful of getting the necessary one-third to prevent the

Funds Running Out

Transit System May Be Forced To Halt Service

Unless additional funding is provided by the end of this month, the Murray-Calloway County Transit System, operated by the local Senior Citizens organization, will cease operation.

That was the word today from Dick George, chairman of the Senior Citizens' Advisory Board transportation committee.

George said the system, which began less than a year ago and serves primarily senior citizens, is about out of money. He estimated that it would take approximately $35,000 to $40,000 to operate the system for a year, not including gas, oil and maintenance on the vehicles.

Gas, oil and maintenance for the three mini-buses operating in the system have been running close to $500 per month and the local senior citizens organization has been paying $292 per month to help defray a portion of this cost.

The system, which officially got underway in mid-August of last year, was originally funded by a one-time federal grant of $29,949.

That grant was to expire in December of 1976 but at that time, the system still had about $10,000 of the grant remaining and the expiration was extended until June 30, 1977.

Two buses for the system were purchased on an 80 per cent-20 per cent grant from the federal government with the Murray City Council providing the approximate $2,500 for the local funding of the grant. The third bus in the system was already owned by the senior citizens organization. Two of the buses are equipped with electric lifts so that handicapped persons, such as those in wheelchairs, can be boarded on the buses.

The system was designed to operate with one bus on a regular route and two buses "on-call." In order to extend the available funds an additional 30 days, George said, the route bus was eliminated at the end of May.

Charges on the regular route bus were 25 cents, one-way, and the charge on the "on-call" buses is 50 cents, one-way, within the city. Charges for trips outside the city limits are based on the actual miles traveled.

Senior citizens age 60 and over can qualify for a 50 per cent discount on the cost of the fares by purchasing tickets in advance, i. e., $10 worth of tickets for $5.

The system employs an administrator, a secretary-dispatcher, three full-time and three part-time drivers.

When the system began operation last year, George said, "we were transporting approximately 400 people per month."

"Now, 10 months later," he added, "we are carrying close to 2,000 people per month."

George said today that a federal grant has been applied for that would help the system but that if approved, it would not become available until October.

He indicated that if some alternate funding is not found to tide the system over until October that the system would be forced to shut down.

"The problem with now face," George said, "is that the system will go out of operation on June 30 if additional funds are not found."

Center Furnace Ruins Accepted For National Register Listing

Center Furnace Ruins, the only visible remains of a once thriving iron production operation in Trigg County, have been accepted for listing on the National Register of Historic Places, according to the Kentucky Heritage Commission staff.

Mrs. Eldred W. Melton, executive director of the commission, said the ruins are located about 12 miles north of Golden Pond, Ky., on the Tennessee Valley Authority's (TVA) Land Between the Lakes. "The Center Furnace was probably the last charcoal-fired, cold-blast iron production operation in the Between the Rivers area of western Kentucky and Tennessee," she said.

According to the National Register form, Daniel Hillman, owner of two iron production operations, the Empire Furnace and the Fulton Furnace, built the Center Furnace halfway between the other two in 1852. The natural resources of the area, such as timber, iron ore and water systems, provided the necessities for a thriving iron industry in the area.

"Operation of the furnace was divided into three periods," said Mrs. Melton. "The first period was from its construction through the Civil War. During the war, the Center Furnace was the only one in the area that continued production and supplied iron to the South until the Union soldiers ordered operations to cease. When Arthur Hillman put the furnace back in blast in 1879, he began the next major period of operation that lasted until 1883. During the final period of operation from 1905 to 1912, the furnace was managed by the White and Dixon firm which had leased the furnace and land from the Hillman Land Iron Company."

Mrs. Melton said, "Operation of the furnace and support facilities required a labor force of 250 to 300 men. As a result, a small community grew up and around the area. When the furnace first began operating, it utilized slave labor and Chinese labor. During its 65 years of irregular operation, the furnace provided a vital source of employment to the area."

Mrs. Melton said the only time the furnace was known to have been altered was during 1903 and 1904, eight years before the furnace went out of blast permanently. The repairs were necessary for re-firing and resumed operation of the furnace following a period of inactivity.

The ruins of the brick stack and limestone abutment are all that remains of the once busy operation. The furnace ruins, which are located within the Environmental Education Center of TVA's Land Between the Lakes, along with the nearby iron ore pits and charcoal hearth sites, are a point of great historical interest, according to Heritage Commission staff.

Higher Taxes On Oil Are Approved By Committee

WASHINGTON — A key House committee, approving President Carter's plan for higher oil taxes, now must decide where the money should go.

The vote Tuesday by the Ways and Means Committee on higher oil prices is expected to increase the cost of gasoline by seven cents a gallon by 1981.

Carter, seeking the increase in price to cut U.S. consumption of oil, also is calling for steps to make certain that oil companies don't receive windfall profits from the higher tax.

In three key votes, the committee made it clear Tuesday it does not want part of the proceeds to go to the oil industry as a production incentive.

The committee was expected to debate today where the proceeds from the multi-billion-dollar levy should go.

The President wants revenues from the tax to be refunded to consumers under a system including annual rebates of up to $45 a person.

The vote for the higher tax was Carter's first legislative victory for his energy program. House committees last week voted tentatively against administration requests for a standby tax on gasoline, a tax on low-mileage ACCIDENT CAUSES JAM—A traffic accident at the corner of 12th and Main streets here resulted in a jam-up of traffic along the two main arteries yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred when a truck (left background) driven by James A. Beatty of Hopkinsville knocked down a utility pole while making a turn at the busy intersection. Traffic signals supported by the pole dropped several feet from their normal height, creating a hazard to motorists. Crews from the Murray Electric System and the state Highway Department were called in to repair the damage. The accident was investigated by the Murray Police Department.

Lois Sparks Serving Director KET Board

For the past six years, Kentucky Educational Television's (KET) Friends Board of Directors has served as a statewide network of volunteers reaching approximately 20 different communities.

KET "Friends" are volunteers who contribute time or money to the station. Most of the Friends who contribute time are members of the Mini-Boards that promote programs on KET and generally help the public become more aware of special events sponsored by KET.

Many of the Mini-Boards were established originally to help KET identify community leaders in each of the 13 transmitter areas around the state. KET is required by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to talk to community leaders to discover the problems, needs and interests of the communities so that KET can respond to these topics when scheduling programs.

In Murray, Mrs. Lois Sparks is currently director of the Friends Board here. She took the job last summer, and was soon after named co-chairperson of Calloway County's fund drive for the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Sparks is a former junior high school English teacher and college librarian, and has also been a consultant at the state department of education in Frankfort.

In addition to her KET responsibilities, Mrs. Sparks is a member of the Murray Woman's Club and a Murray Methodist church. Mrs. Sparks, the mother of two sons and a daughter, also likes to spend time with her husband, Harry.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Usually when it is dry, I wish for a long drizzly rain, but now I think I would settle for any kind... a down pour, or even a "gully washer". It really hurts me to see the shrubs looking so hot and curling their leaves. With the temperature in the nineties, it is hard to water things enough to offset the direct heat.

One way to help plants during such weather is to constantly cultivate. By aerating the soil, there is some absorption from the dew of night and the ground doesn't get packed and baked by the sun. Again I say, to MULCH everything. It is a lifesaver these days. It lets the air in and helps keep the sun out.

This weather is especially hard on newly set out plants. I had three Azaleas replaced, since winter's damage and have had to water them almost constantly. Any transplanted shrubs or annuals will have to have plenty of water if they are to survive. And remember a good soaking is what they need, not just a daily sprinkling.

With everything so dry, we appreciate every blossom. My Lace Cap Hydrangea is loaded with buds, and you can be sure I haven't let it die or even wilt. Hydrangeas need moisture to give their best performance, and after a good watering you can see them perk up and the leaves stand as if they felt so good and fresh.

It is a joy to see plants respond to treatment. I nursed a fancy leaved Geranium along for a week or so thinking every day it would succumb. But it survived and is now a healthy little plant, ready to bloom.

Have you ever tried any of these fancy leaved Geraniums? The foliage comes in several different combinations of green, yellow and red or bronze colors. The leaves are striped or spotted and it makes a very unusual plant. It is a good house plant for winter also, as it does not get as large as its outdoor cousins.

It is unbelievable how weeds can grow in weather like this. The hotter it gets the bigger the weeds grow and fast. I went on a chopping spree this morning and I fully expect to see them back in the same spot by tomorrow.

That may be a fatalistic attitude, but I guess it is like the evil in the world. It takes constant work to keep it under control. Maybe the reason there is so much of it is because we, who call ourselves Christians, are not sufficiently active. Maybe we need to speak out more often and to live our belief more ardently.

Slaw teams well with fish dinners from those frequent fishing trips which you may be making right now. To make it special, combine six cups of shredded cabbage (both red and white) with two tablespoons chopped green onion. Make a dressing by beating together one cup (4 oz.) crumbled Blue Cheese, one-half cup dairy sour cream, two tablespoons light cream, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon of sugar and a dash of salt. Just before serving add dressing to chilled cabbage, tossing lightly. Yield: 8 servings. — Judy Hetterman, Hickman.

Any garment fitted with a slide fastener should have its zipper fully closed prior to being hung up or otherwise stored after wearing. Also the zipper should be completely closed prior to laundering or dry cleaning because such a procedure helps to maintain proper shape and balance during the cleaning process. — Dean Roper, Mayfield.

Several groups are the most frequently victimized in the marketplace. The meanest racket of all is swindling older people. They are particularly vulnerable to health fads, home repair rackets and money swindles. The "pigeon drop" hoax is the most common money swindle. FURNITURE SHOPPING REQUIRES HOMEWORK. Did you ever buy exciting new furniture, only to discover it didn't look right with the rest of your things, or didn't fit the space you had in mind? If so, it probably shook your faith in your decorating ability. Next time, try completing part of your shopping before you set foot in the store. It will be twice as much fun, less tiring and the results will be far more likely to please you. Homework might involve: Decide what you want that piece of furniture to do for the household, and what kind of wear and tear it will be subjected to. Gather up samples of furnishings fabrics you want it to look well with. Match up some paint chips with colors you have in the room, too. Take all of these along with you when you shop. Collect magazine pictures of ideas and study them. Make a floor plan of your room, noting the dimensions and also the size and placement of other furniture. Plan to take this along, too. Once you start shopping, do some browsing first. Check out the styles, colors and prices. Read fact tags attached to pieces. Try out the furniture for size and comfort. Write down any questions you might have, so you won't forget to ask the salesperson. Tell him what you can pay, what you want, and what you expect. Find out everything you can about care, quality and other special features. — Mildred W. Potts, LaCenter.

Cobb & Jarrett Vows Are Read

MR. AND MRS. JAMES JARRETT are now residing in Murray following their wedding on Friday, May 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of the Rev. R. T. Bennett in Paris, Tenn. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Bennett in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride is the former Miss Deborah Cobb, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Dennis Cobb of Dresden, Tenn., formerly of Murray. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Jarrett of Murray.

For her wedding the bride wore a white floor length dress made by her sister. She wore a white hat and carried a bouquet of silk yellow roses and white daisies with yellow streamers.

Laura Jarrett, maid of honor, was attired in a long blue floor length dress and carried a single long stemmed yellow rose made of silk. Best man was Martin Cobb.

After the wedding the reception was held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Bennett with Mrs. Ruby Bennett and Karen Cobb serving the guests.

The couple spent a two weeks wedding trip on the west coast and enroute visited Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona, Pismo Beach, Calif., Tomstone, Arizona, and Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico.

The new Mrs. Jarrett attended Calloway County High School where the groom graduated in 1972.

New Appliance Colors Brighten Kitchen Picture

In the beginning, the kitchen stove was black. It had to be to hide the soot, smoke and grime it produced while burning coal, wood or fuel oil.

By comparison, today's electric ranges are clean-looking — there are no flames and no ashes. But, surprisingly, black is once again an "in" color.

Full width black glass oven doors on ranges and wall ovens, and black glass behind control panels, have proven increasingly popular.

The reason? "Black is a strong neutral color against which many other bright accents, cool pastels, or warm earth tones can be successfully related," says Arthur N. BecVar, head of industrial design for General Electric major appliances. "The high-gloss, black-front appliances reflect and dramatize kitchen colors and patterns. They are ideal for highlighting any color scheme, or to complement contemporary decor."

Today's appliance buyers, however, unlike those at the turn of the century, have a choice of many other appliance colors besides black to satisfy their preferences and to mix or match with their decor.

Recently, General Electric Company introduced five fresh new colors, in addition to Onyx black, as "The New Naturals." This palette of clean, pure solid appliance colors was created in response to the desire of modern consumers to bring outdoor colors into the home and to permit greater freedom of expression.

These unshaded, high gloss colors not only provide a lustrous appearance but also are completely compatible with current appliance colors so they will fit into existing decor as well as new kitchens.

One completely new color in the GE offering which is unlike any color presently available to consumers is Almond, a light beige that is neutral enough to mix or match with most types of kitchen decor and existing appliance colors. And it is compatible with today's trend to the use of natural materials in home decorating.

There also are fresh new versions of the standard yellow, green, brown and white appliance colors, being called: Harvest Wheat, Fresh Avocado, Coffee and Snow.

Why new colors at this time? Explains BecVar: "Major trends indicate that many people are seeking a home color environment that is based on naturals, neutral colors, accented with clean, fresh colors. These neutral colors offer freedom to the consumer to express her individual decorating taste in the kitchen and laundry — freedom to change the surrounding decor easily during the life of the appliances and freedom to replace old appliances with new ones that will blend with her existing appliances."

We are pleased to announce that Joann Parker, bride-elect of James Gamble, has selected her Pottery and Crystal from our complete bridal register.

Joann and James will be married on July 22, 1977.

Bureau To Take Over Services For Blind

FRANKFORT—Effective July 1, the Bureau for the Blind will take over counseling, education and employment services for Kentucky's 500 blind and 1,200 visually impaired residents.

Until the transfer of the 1,700 clients to the Bureau of the Blind, services for those individuals will continue to be performed by the Divisions of Services for the Blind in the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services.

Officials from the Atlanta regional office of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and state officials engaged in the transfer of services met this week to discuss the transition period.

Dr. Steve Cornett, director of the regional office in Atlanta, assured those involved in the transition that Kentucky's state plan for the Bureau for the Blind met all basic, legal requirements and "will be approved effective July 1."

"I'm pleased and proud that this program has gotten off the ground in Kentucky," Cornett said.

The Bureau for the Blind will operate with a $2.8 million budget during its first year.

The 1976 General Assembly legislated the bureau and Governor Julian M. Carroll asked Education and Arts Secretary Wendell P. Butler to develop a state plan to create the separate bureau. The Bureau for the Blind will remain under the auspices of the Education and Arts Cabinet.

Charles McDowell has a temporary appointment as head of the new bureau and an official appointment by Governor Carroll is expected, Butler said.

McDowell indicated that plans for implementing the new bureau are running smoothly and said, "During the transition, no client will suffer from lack of services."

The remote ancestor of the letter N was a wavy letter used to represent water.

Halicki Angered At Giants And Takes Out Anger On Cardinals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Right-hander Ed Halicki is mad at the San Francisco Giants, but it's his National League opponents who are feeling the sting.

Halicki, unhappy because Giants' management is unwilling to renegotiate his $60,000 contract, took out his anger on the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night, firing a three-hitter for a 7-1 win.

"Maybe I'm trying to prove to people that I can pitch," said Halicki, now 6-5 after four victories in his last five decisions. He has allowed eight earned runs in his last six starts, lowering his earned run average to 2.84.

Halicki was paid $33,000 during a 12-14 season in 1976 and quickly signed a one-year, $60,000 pact before departing for winter ball.

"I knew something was wrong when I gave Spec Richardson (general manager) that figure and he didn't fall out of his chair," the pitcher recalled. "Then all those guys start signing million-dollar contracts."

"I'm not being unreasonable. I just want to be traded because the Giants are not willing to give me a little more money. I'd settle for the average salary on this club, which is probably around $80,000."

"I really want to clear up why I want to be traded," he said. "It has nothing to do with the team, the weather, the manager or the players. It's just that the management doesn't take me seriously."

The same cannot be said for the Cardinals, who were held scoreless on one hit until Mike Tyson's walk and Jerry Templeton's two-out double ruined the shut-out bid in the sixth.

The Giants, meanwhile, pounded loser Bob Forsch, 8-3, for eight hits while jumping to a 7-0 lead after five innings.

Derrel Thomas had a hand in three rallies. He walked and scored on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly in the first, singled and scored on Gary Thomasson's two-run double in the third and belted a run-scoring single after Halicki's double in the fourth.

The two teams meet again tonight, but little swapping is expected as the midnight trading deadline nears. It's a good bet that Halicki won't get his wish.

Indians, Orioles Take Wins In Tuesday Pony League Contests

The Indians and Orioles grabbed wins in Pony League contests played Tuesday night at the Murray-Calloway County park.

In the first contest, the Indians posted their second victory of the season as they ripped the Dodgers 9-5.

Charlie Santagado went the route for the winners and scattered seven hits while fanning seven men.

The Indians got five runs in the first with Charlie and Robert Santagado each driving in runs with singles. The Dodgers made it 5-1 with a single tally in the second then in the top of the third, Tony Herndon's three-run homer for the Dodgers made it a 5-3 Indian lead.

The Indians posted two more in the third to go up 7-3 then in the last of the fifth, Robert Santagado and Mark Smith hit back-to-back home runs and it was a 9-3 game.

The Indians are now 2-4 while the Dodgers fall to 1-5.

Herndon had three hits for the Dodgers while Louis Zimmerman added two and Bob Frye and Mark Mueller picked up one apiece.

For the Indians, Robert Santagado had two hits while Ronnie Pace, Charlie Santagado, Mark Smith, Gil Capote and Todd Rutherford all had one hit.

In the second contest, Gary Sims scattered four hits as the Orioles posted a 5-2 win over the Mets.

Sims fanned four during his seven innings of work. Donnie Thompson took the loss for the Mets. Both teams are 3-2 on the season.

Kevin Calvin hit a solo homerun in the top of the first to boost the Mets to a 1-0 lead but in the home half of the inning, a two-run single by Gary Starks put the Orioles in front.

Starks singled in another run in the third to make it a 3-1 lead for the Orioles then in the fourth, Tim Falwell hit a homer and another run scored on a passed ball and the Orioles had a 5-1 lead and the win wrapped away.

For the Orioles, Starks had two hits while Scott Hill, Todd Bradshaw, George Bell and Tim Falwell all had one hit apiece.

Mike Gough paced the Met attack with two hits while Kim Wilson and Kevin Calvin each had one hit.

Girls' Cage Camp Set To Open Soon At MSU

A basketball camp for junior and senior high school girls has been scheduled at Murray State University from June 26-July 2. Dew Drop Rowlett, MSU women's coach, will direct the camp.

Registration will be Sunday, June 26 at Richmond Hall from 1-5 p. m. The camp will be open to any girl attending junior or senior high school in 1977.

Offensive and defensive basketball will receive major emphasis during the camp. Campers will participate daily in drills, scrimmages, and games and will also hear guest lecturers and study films on techniques.

Among those teaching at the camp will be Trish Roberts, who led the University of Tennessee's women's team to third place in the national tournament last spring. Roberts, named to the All-America team, averaged 30 points and 14 rebounds last season as Tennessee compiled a 28-5 record. "She's the best overall player in the country," says her coach Pat Head.

Other camp instructors include Pat Ward, Carla Coffey, Jana Jones, Janie Ross, and Carol Robertson, all former Murray State players who now coach. Ward coaches at Habstadt, Ind., High School; Coffey at Western Kentucky University (track); Jones at an Iowa High School; Ross at Butler County; and Robertson at Lyon County.

Roxanne Maddix and Bev Parrish, current Murray players, will also assist with the camp.

Guest lecturers will include Cal Luther, MSU athletic director and former coach, Fred Overton and Jim Calvin, MSU basketball coaches, and Stan Key, former Calloway County High School and University of Kentucky player.

Persons wanting more information on the camp should contact the Continuing Education Office at the university (Phone 502-762-4150).

Seaver Says He'd Go To Reds, Pirates, Dodgers Or Phillies

NEW YORK (AP) — Today is June 15. Do you know where Tom Seaver is?

Where he is, is in Atlanta with the New York Mets. Where he wants to be is somewhere else. The Mets have until midnight tonight, PDT, the intra-league trading deadline, to put the best player the franchise has ever had into a foreign uniform.

Reluctantly, Seaver says, he has come to the conclusion that he and the Mets will have to part company. He says he would accept a trade to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Los Angeles or Cincinnati.

"I have no idea if anything will happen," said Seaver, the winningest pitcher in Mets history and a three-time Cy Young Award winner. "I expressed my views. I want to get away from Mr. Grant. I just cannot work for that man."

Seaver and M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the Mets, have been at odds since the star pitcher signed a three-year $675,000 contract last year. Grant says Seaver became unhappy with the contract after realizing other players, who had become free agents, were receiving bigger money packages.

Seaver, who has asked to renegotiate his contract and has been turned down by a unanimous vote by the Mets board, said he was unhappy with his contract even before he signed it.

On Monday, the Mets appeared close to closing a deal with Cincinnati. But that trade seemed to fall apart because pitcher Rawly Eastwick, one of the three players the Reds were said to have offered for Seaver, said he would not sign a contract this season, preferring to test his worth on the free agent market.

With Eastwick's stance, Los Angeles appeared to have gained the inside track, at least in the eyes of Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner.

"If any team gets Seaver, it probably will be the Dodgers," Tanner said at a Tuesday luncheon in Los Angeles.

If that happens, the Dodgers, front-runners in the National League West, will have a big edge over the Reds, the chasers in the same division.

However, Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda, who calls Seaver the best pitcher in baseball, doesn't appear eager to break up a winning combination.

Murray Legion Team Has 11 Errors In 9-4 Loss

The Murray American Legion continued its poor play in the field as they made an unbelievable 11 errors in dropping a 9-4 game Tuesday night to Fort Campbell at Holland Stadium.

On Sunday, Murray lost a twinbill at Russellville and in those two seven-inning contests, Murray had a total of 14 errors.

Fort Campbell used two walks and a single to score twice in the top of the first off Murray righthander Larry Watkins.

But in the bottom of the second, Murray came back with a pair to tie the game and it appeared the contest might be a slugfest.

Kim Sims, who had singled and went to second on a groundout, scored when Tommy Chavis singled and after Mickey McCuiston had walked, Jeff Oakley hit a fielder's choice to drive in Murray's second run of the first inning.

Fort Campbell used three hits in the third to score two more in the frame and go up 4-2. The visitors added single runs in the fourth and fifth before Murray made it 6-4 with two in their half of the fifth. Both Murray runs scored when Jeff Oakley singled.

Fort Campbell added one more in the sixth and two in the eighth to wrap up the win, their first of the season after three previous losses.

Watkins stayed around for six innings and gave up seven runs, only three of which were earned. He fanned five and walked three.

Tommy Chavis hurled the last two innings and gave up two unearned runs on one hit. Murray had just four hits in the contest as Kim Sims, Tommy Chavis, Jeff Oakley and Mickey McCuiston all had a hit apiece.

Murray drops to 4-7 with the loss.

Saturday, Murray will return the visit to Fort Campbell. A Thursday home twinbill with Union City has been rescheduled for July 10.

Crouse, Hogan-camp, Lovett and Hays all homered for the Reds.

Signs Contract

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Miami University basketball and baseball standout John Shoemaker has signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Shoemaker, still with one year of eligibility for the Redskins' co-champion Mid-American Conference basketball team, was assigned to the Dodgers farm team at Clinton, Iowa.

Miami's baseball team finished 44-15 this season and Shoemaker, a first baseman, hit .266 and drove in 26 runs.

John Hiller Likes New Role As Starter, Beats Blue Jays

By BOB GREENE

AP Sports Writer

John Hiller isn't putting out fires anymore; he's just putting out opposing hitters.

The veteran left-hander, making his fifth start after relinquishing his role as a reliever, struck out 12 and held Toronto to just four hits, pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 7-2 victory over the Blue Jays Tuesday night.

"I find starting easier now than relief pitching," said Hiller, 4-6. "If I go seven, eight, nine innings and get a loss, I don't feel so bad. I figure I did my job."

"But if you come in in relief and give up a run in the eighth or ninth, it's hard on you."

Tuesday, it was Hiller who was hard on the expansionist Blue Jays. He struck out one batter in each of the first, third, fifth, sixth, seventh and ninth innings, and fanned two in the second, fourth and eighth.

Rangers 7, Indians 2

A two-run homer by Tom Grieve and a three-run shot by Dave May powered Texas to its victory over Cleveland, handing the Indians their third straight defeat and fourth in the last five games.

Gaylord Perry, 6-5, a former Cleveland ace, got the victory although he left the game after giving up a two-run homer to Andre Thornton.

Wayne Garland, 2-7, took the loss, lasting just 2 1-3 innings and giving up six runs on six hits.

Orioles 8, Brewers 5, 11 innings

A three-run homer by Pat Kelly in the bottom of the 11th inning capped a four-run rally and lifted Baltimore over Milwaukee.

Baltimore's Lee May homered in the fifth, snapping a 3-3 tie, but Milwaukee tied the score again in the eighth on Sixto Lezcano's single and an error.

Red Sox 7, White Sox 1

George Scott knocked in four runs with two homers and Bernie Carbo hit a solo homer, pacing Boston's victory over Chicago. It was the Red Sox' sixth straight victory.

Winner Rick Wise, 3-2, surrendered a homer to Ralph Garr leading off the game, but then limited Chicago to just three more hits in the seven innings he worked. Chris Knapp, 5-3, gave up Scott's 13th homer in the fourth.

Yankees 4, Royals 2

A bases-loaded walk to Roy White in the eighth inning forced home the tie-breaking run as New York downed Kansas City behind Don Gullett's four-hit pitching.

Cards, Reds Pick Up Wins In Kentucky League Play Tuesday

The Cards and Reds grabbed wins in Kentucky League games played Tuesday.

In the first contest, the Cards won a well-played 4-3 game over the Yanks and knocked the Yanks from the ranks of the undefeated.

Both the Yanks and Cards are now 4-1.

The game was tied at two apiece going into the last of the fourth. Rick Grogan singled for the Cards and scored when Jimmy Kelly later singled and that snapped the tie. Kelly later scored to add an insurance run, which was needed because the Yanks did manage to add a run in the top half of the sixth.

Mitch Grogan hurled the final three innings for the Cards and picked up the mound decision.

For the Cards, Steve Malone, Rick Grogan and Jimmy Kelly all had one hit while for the Yanks, Mark West had two hits while Scott Nix, Kelly Steely and John Mark Hall added one hit apiece.

In the second game, the Reds also raised their record to 4-1 with a 19-2 win over the A's, who fall to 2-3 with the loss.

Shawn McClure hurled the first three frames for the Reds and got the win.

For the A's, Steve Hatton and Robert Hopkins had one hit apiece. For the Reds, Shawn McClure, Dave Burris and Shane Guthrie had two hits. McClure drove in three runs.

Rusty Wright and Tyler Prince also hit safely for the Reds.

Twins, Athletics Grab Wins In Little League

The Twins won the first half of the Little League season with a 14-11 win Tuesday night over the Yanks.

The win by the Twins leaves them with a 6-1 record and if they should win the race in the second half of the season, they would be the league champs. If some other team wins the second half title, then the Twins would play that team for the league crown.

In the other contest, the A's shocked the Cards 5-3 to knock the Cards out of a share of second place.

Tim Brown got the Twins started in the top of the first of the opening game with a two-run single, high-lighting a three-run outburst.

But the lead was short-lived as the Yanks roared back with eight runs in their half of the first. The key hits in the frame for the Yanks were an RBI double by Nicky Santagado and an RBI triple by Robert Stout.

The Twins made it 8-7 in favor of the Yanks as again, Tim Brown supplied the punch in the four-run second inning as he knocked a two-run hit.

Going into the top of the fifth inning, the teams were tied up at 11-11. But again, Brown came through as he drove in two runs with a double and the Twins went on to add another run for the 14-11 win.

The Yanks did not score in the last of the fifth as Stuart Alexander, who allowed one run in the final two innings and got the win, blanked the Yanks.

Brown had four hits and knocked in six runs in the contest for the Twins. Gary Galloway and Ronnie Bryan each added one hit.

For the Yanks, who finished with a 3-4 season mark, Robert Stout, Nicky Santagado and Mark Boggess all had two hits. Santagado drove in four runs. David McCuiston and Bill Tolley each added one hit for the Yanks.

In the second contest, Kelly Calvin stole the show with his pitching and hitting.

The Cards scored three times in the top of the first as David Denham drove in two with a double and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Brian Doyle.

The A's trimmed the lead to 3-1 with a single tally in the third.

In the last of the fifth, Russell Garland led off for the A's by laying down a perfect bunt in front of the plate. The throw to first went out into rightfield and the speedy Garland scooted all the way around the paths to score on a bunt and the A's trailed only 3-2.

Harry Weatherly then singled and didn't spend much time on base as John Smelser followed with a double to drive in Weatherly with the tying run.

Then up came Kelly Calvin for the A's.

Calvin unloaded on a pitch and hit the farthest homer in the league this season. The ball carried far beyond the fence and landed over 300 feet away from the plate, giving the A's a 5-3 lead.

Calvin held the Cards scoreless in the top of the sixth to record the win. Calvin pitched the last three innings, fanned six batters and did not give up a hit.

For the A's, who are now 3-4 on the season, Harry Weatherly, John Smelser, Kelly Calvin and Jimmy Kelly all had a hit.

For the Cards, David Denham, Brian Doyle and David York all had a hit.

The second half of the league season will begin Thursday night with a pair of games.

The regular league season will end on July 8 and selections for the Murray Little League All-Star Team will be announced the following day.

Then on July 18, the Murray Little League All-Stars will go to Fulton to open tourney play.

Dodgers Get Help From Bucs, Reds, Cubs Keep On Winning

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The way things are going for the Los Angeles Dodgers, they will take any help they can get.

And they got it Tuesday night from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The reeling Dodgers were on the verge of another knockout when they were revived by an infield error, then completely resuscitated by a passed ball in the ninth inning.

The result was a 3-2 victory over the Pirates and a renewed confidence in themselves.

"Tonight, we finally got the breaks," said Lee Lacy, who drove in the tying run after shortstop Frank Taveras' boot gave him the opportunity.

The Dodgers were losing 2-1 going into the final inning, and undoubtedly were aware that the Cincinnati Reds already had won their game. The Reds, the Dodgers' top challenger in the National League West, had beaten the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 earlier and climbed within 6½ games of the faltering front-runners.

Pinch-hitter Boog Powell started the Dodgers' rally with a one-out single. Ed Goodson, another pinch-hitter, hit a potential double play grounder at Taveras. But the Pirates' shortstop couldn't handle it.

Then Lacy hit a ground ball up the middle which took a bad hop, driving in pinch runner John Hale and tying the score at 2-2.

Then Johnny Oates, running for Ed Goodson, scored the winning run from third on catcher Ed Ott's passed ball.

Reds 3, Phillies 2
Johnny Bench drove in three runs in support of Fred Norman's six-hit pitching as Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia. Norman, 7-2, gained his sixth straight victory.

Braves 8, Mets 5
Willie Montanez drove in five runs with a single, double and home run, leading Atlanta over New York.

Don Collins, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, worked out of a none-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth, preserving the victory for Max Leon, 2-2. Jackson Todd, 2-2, took the loss.

Cubs 6, Padres 5
Manny Trillo's two-out, bases-loaded single in the 12th inning snapped a 5-5 tie, leading Chicago past San Diego. Trillo's decisive hit came off ace Padres reliever Rolie Fingers, 4-3.

HOLE-IN-ONE—Burlene Brewer, member of the Oaks Country Club, got her first hole-in-one as she picked up the ace Saturday on the 160-yard, par-three 15th hole at the Oaks. She used a three-wood and was playing in a group with Betty Shepard and Laura Parker. This is the second hole-in-one for the Brewer family as her husband, Delmer, had one on the 15th in 1972.

Needs a Referee, Not Rules for Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please rush me 10 "Do's and Don'ts" on how to get my husband back. He hasn't actually left me, he's just not here. I am 26 and Jeff is 28, and he hasn't even held my hand since last December!

We have two adorable children. We planned to have four, but if I'm going to have any more, I will have to look into artificial insemination. I've been complaining about this for a long time, but it hasn't done me much good. Jeff says he's "tired." (But he's not too tired to play two hours of tennis every Sunday!)

Then it suddenly hit me. I guess I don't appeal to him anymore. I don't know why. I'm the same girl he chased all over the campus at Boulder, Colorado eight years ago. I haven't let myself go to seed, and I know there's nobody else. I just hate to be the aggressor, but if I wait for Jeff to make the first move, nothing will ever happen. Besides, I have my pride. So please be a pal, Abby, and send me those 10 Do's and Don'ts on how to get my husband back. Thank you.

RUTHIE

DEAR RUTHIE: I wish there were 10 "Do's and Don'ts" on how to revive a marriage. But there aren't. Every marriage is different. (And so is every Jeff.)

Face your problem squarely, and tell it to Jeff. Don't play a waiting game, and forget your pride. He obviously has a problem. It could be physical. Or emotional. In any case he has cooled off far too much for a young man who is still on the sunny side of 30. Get counseling!

DEAR ABBY: How do you think our young people compare with the generation before them?

INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: Despite all the crime, violence and rebellion that has surfaced today, I have seen more compassion, love and caring and less bigotry, prejudice and selfishness than was evidenced 20 years ago.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell those women libbers not to feel slighted when the pronoun "he" or "him" is used when referring to people in general. "She" and "her" is always used when referring to battleships and tornadoes.

BIG AL

DEAR AL: True. But who wants to be a battleship or a tornado? I notice that "He" and "Him" is always used when referring to God.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Gov. Carroll Asks For Federal Aid To Help Schools

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky hasn't had much luck trying to obtain federal aid for the past disastrous winter, but it is trying again in the realm of schools.

Gov. Julian Carroll Tuesday asked for a total of $5.7 million in federal grants to help many school districts affected by damage from the winter of '77.

His office said that federal law provides for certain major and specific disaster assistance.

It said the governor made his request for damage not covered by insurance for schools or districts which sustained more than $1,000 in winter-related losses.

Carroll sent his letter to Dr.

Ernest Boyer, commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education, along with a list of school districts which need the money.

The state recently applied for a vast amount of federal aid for agriculture and other losses due to the most severe winter in memory, but Washington did not approve that request.

The governor told Boyer that the cumulative winter damage to Kentucky public schools and publicly-owned school buildings and campuses not covered by insurance actually is greater than $6 million.

"It is beyond the capabilities of state and local governments alone to provide the required funds and restore the public education facilities to their condition prior to the severe winter storms of 1977," he said.

The governor listed damage which included roof, water line, sewer line, road, sidewalk and thermal shock damages to school facilities.

He said some school systems have reported damage to foundation and concrete slab floors from the deep freeze.

Kentucky's 181 school districts were forced to close from 10 to 40 days from mid-January to mid-March.

Almost 700,000 pupils are enrolled in the state's public schools.

The governor listed about 130 districts and specified the damage they sustained.

The most sought was $619,000 for Jefferson County schools and $611,000 for Pike County's system.

Other large aid requests: Bell County $148,000, Ashland Independent $199,000, Daviess County $169,000, Fayette County $118,000, Paintsville $110,000, Leslie County $167,000 and Warren County $120,000.

Carroll's letter said: "I further certify that this disaster was not caused by negligence or malicious action."

cars and continued price controls on natural gas.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said after the vote on higher oil taxes that the President was "extremely pleased by what he termed the 'courageous action' taken by the House Ways and Means Committee in the face of an intense lobbying campaign by the oil industry."

Powell said Carter hoped the committee action "will be maintained in future consideration by the Congress."

Starting next year, the tax would take effect in three annual steps and eventually raise the controlled price of oil produced in the United States, generally ranging from $5.25 a barrel to $11.28, up to the uncontrolled world price of about $13.50.

The administration estimated the President's proposal would save up to 200,000 barrels a day in 1980 and would involve a peak revenue of $14 billion annually.

The vote was 48 more than the one-third needed to sustain a veto.

Carter has said he might veto the bill if the disputed projects are approved.

Before the vote, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said he doubted the House would be able to override a veto on the water projects. He said if Carter vetoes the bill it will be sent back to the Appropriations Committee for changes.

Sources in Congress and the environmental movement said the projects recommended for elimination in the Senate subcommittee vote were: Bayou Bodcau, Louisiana, $2.4 million; Cache Basin, Arkansas, $2 million; LaFarge Lake, Wisconsin, $2 million; Lukfata Lake, Oklahoma, $200,000; Meramec Park Lake, Missouri, $10 million; Yatesville Dam, Kentucky, $7.2 million; Oahe irrigation project, South Dakota, $17 million; and Savery-Pot Hook, Colorado and Wyoming, $6 million.

A Statement From Local 1068

Due to the Tappan Company's news release seemingly attempting to present the union in some form other than the true conditions, as they actually exist, this statement was prepared in an attempt to enlighten those of you that are interested as well as put things in their proper perspective.

These remarks are intended to focus attention to problems, and facts in a factual manner and not on personalities.

The company has had about six months under this contract to establish production standards that would meet the requirements of the contract. They have failed to do so. Beyond this, the company has refused to honor the agreement and have committed numerous contract violations in an unrestricted manner along with administering unjustifiable discipline.

The company has known for several weeks that the union intended to follow the provisions of Article 14, Section 14.6, of the contract, if they refused to correct and establish the production standards so they would yield in accord with the contractual requirements.

Article 14, Section 14.6, provides the union with the right to strike when the company's production standards will not yield one (1) per cent pay for each one (1) per cent effort put forth on such standard.

The company has disciplined many employees in an attempt to force their desired productivity off of these uncontractually established production standards.

The company has refused to give employees proper relief, or time-off of the assembly lines, to go to the rest room in cases of emergency. In cases where necessity demanded their going to the rest room, the company discipline those employees for leaving the assembly line.

In another case where an employee asked for a relief man so he could go to the First-Aid to get attention for a sick condition, he waited for over an hour for relief that the company refused to provide. The employee fell out with pain and was carried out on a stretcher and later transferred to the hospital.

Contract violations have been committed by the company on an unlimited basis. Anything from attempting to curtail and restrict union leadership in the performance of their duties to refusing to pay pension benefits to disabled employees that became disabled as a result of job related injuries or diseases. The company is attempting to deny these disabled employees the right to draw their earned pension benefits and paid up life insurance coverages both of which are supposed to be contractually guaranteed.

To shed more light on the matter, there have been over one hundred employees that have quit Tappan during the last six months. These employees gave up more than a total of fifteen hundred (1500) years seniority. Do you think this would have happened if things were just half way fair?

Insofar as the company's attempting to create the appearance of something other than "fair play" with the 118 new employees that are not union members as of this time, the union could have taken its vote days before it did but we held off in an attempt to give the company additional time to make corrections if they had desired to do so. However, the company was told while they were hiring the 118 "that the union would not allow the company to stuff our ballot box."

In addition to all arguments pertaining to the 118 new employees that have not become union members and were not eligible to vote but, to consider even if they could have been allowed to vote and even if the entire 118 had voted the way the company desired, the strike vote would have still carried by a greater majority than is required by the constitution.

We have mentioned just a few of the many problems that actually exist and we will support them with undeniable proof, should it be necessary. However, we have no intention of being drawn into a public display of all company and union grievances. We do not have the time, facilities or ability to continually prepare news articles. Therefore, we hope this reveals some insight into the conditions and reasons behind the problems that exist between the Tappan Company and U. A. W. Local Union No. 1068.

Should it become necessary to strike over production standards the union will not be in violation of the contract.

COOKING CORNER

Eclectic Cook Christopher Shares Recipes

Ron Christopher is evolving into an accomplished cook with his own style, after being influenced by his early Boy Scout training and his father Maurice's example.

Ron is a partner at the law firm of Hurt and Christopher as well as the Commonwealth Attorney for Marshall and Calloway Counties, when he is not gardening, fishing at the lake or cooking. He is a member of the Kentucky Crime Commission and the Prosecutors Advisory Commission. These activities often take him out of town and away from his wife, Ellie, and their almost three year old daughter, Kelsey. Therefore, most of the gardening, by necessity is a family project.

Ellie describes her husband as an organized, precise, and cautious cook who is also a perfectionist in his approach to the kitchen. She feels that of the two, he is the more imaginative and adventurous cook. Her advice to other women whose husbands have indicated an interest in cooking, but who have not yet ventured into the kitchen, is to leave them alone and try not to give too much advice when they try. They should encourage their experimentation with generous amounts of praise, help with the grocery shopping, and by providing the proper equipment.

The Christophers are trying to cut down on carbohydrates in their diets and to eliminate refined sugar, as much as possible. Therefore, their cooking thrust has been in the direction of health foods or a concentration on the natural, unprocessed food products available. To this end Ron recently took a Chinese cooking class where he learned to use the wok and to develop a repertoire of company type dishes. They have also invested in a juicer to make their own fruit and vegetable juices, particularly for Kelsey, as a substitute for the soda pops, canned juices, and dry packaged drinks, to which all children are exposed. They sprout their own bean sprouts regularly under the sink and are experimenting with homemade yogurt recipes.

All this interest in improving their diets came about gradually, but received a big push after reading Sugar Blues by William Dufty.

Both Ron and Ellie like to cook out of the Deaf Smith County Cook Book by Marjorie Winn Ford, Susan Hillard, and Mary Faulk Kooch.

They also enjoy Madame Wu's Art of Chinese Cooking and for special occasions the Time Life series of ethnic cooking which provides elaborate background information and menu suggestions from other countries.

A traditional time for the Christophers to entertain is election night. For these occasions they usually have about 20 people for a buffet of country ham, green beans, cheese grits, and biscuits. The entertainment is always provided by the election returns and the heavily political conversation.

During the summer months most of their entertaining is done at the lake and is very informal and on the spur of the moment. The main cooking implement is the outside grill. If Ron has been fishing his catch will be featured. Generally, this is blue gill or crappie breaded and fried. Hot water cornbread is a favorite accompaniment along with cole slaw and lots of vegetables.

Last August while squirrel hunting with Gov. Julian Carroll, Ron learned to make the governor's favorite potato dish. Ron calls it Julian Carroll potatoes and it is a very quick, hot vegetable dish. First slice as thinly as possible Idaho potatoes with skin intact. Place in a shallow pan and sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika. Let rest 30 minutes. Fry in hot oil deep enough to not quite cover the potatoes. Drain and eat at once.

Ron's recipes run the gamut of his interests from traditional Southern Style, to health oriented, to Chinese. We know you will enjoy trying them.

Electrical Spark Pinpointed As Cause Of Coal Mine Blast

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A federal official says investigators — after months of research — have concluded that an electrical spark ignited a methane gas explosion that killed 15 men in a Letcher County coal mine last year.

Fifteen men were killed March 9, 1976, in Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 Big Black Mountain mine, near Oven Fork in southeastern Kentucky. Two days later 11 men died in the same shaft while trying to repair it so the cause of the first explosion could be investigated.

Joseph Cook, an official of the federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, which has been investigating the blasts, said in a telephone interview Monday that the first blast "had to come from the vicinity of two locomotives" in the tunnel, about three miles back into the shaft.

"The only ignition source was the two locomotives themselves," Cook said.

He said, however, there were many "electrical sources" on the locomotives that could have caused the blast. Cook said it has been discovered that there was loose wiring on at least one of the locomotives — machines used to haul men and equipment into and out of the pits.

Cook said the cause of the second explosion hasn't been pinpointed yet, but that officials believe it also was triggered by an electric spark. "In that area (where the second blast occurred) there was a battery operated deluge system — that is a system that is put on belts at transfer points that would activate a sprinkling system," Cook said.

The MESA official said the wires "leading into" that equipment probably were damaged in the first explosion.

Also, wires leading to a telephone located deep in the pit could have sparked the second blast if someone in the tunnel used it, he said. The telephone was powered by a 24-volt battery. In addition, a "battery operated scoop," a piece of equipment used to carry supplies, also is a suspected source of ignition, Cook said.

It's also possible, Cook said, that a "roof fall on a roof drill" could have created a spark that set off the second blast.

"We've had the rocks analyzed in the roof fall and they could have caused heat sufficient enough to ignite methane," Cook said. "Our experts are looking at these possible causes but we haven't ranked them in any order yet."

H. N. Kirkpatrick, commissioner of Kentucky's Department of Mines and Minerals, has said the state's investigation also determined that the locomotives were the cause of the first explosion.

Kirkpatrick said the state believes the second explosion was caused when rocks fell onto a steel roof-bolting machine, triggering sparks that ignited the methane in the pit.

The men killed in the second explosion had been sent into the mine to shore up the roof and make repairs so that the tunnel would be safe for federal investigators to enter. Three MESA inspectors were among those killed in the second explosion.

Widows of men killed in the first explosion have filed a $60 million lawsuit against Blue Diamond Coal Co., the Knoxville, Tenn., firm which owns Scotia. Trial has been set for Sept. 6 in Pikeville.

Attorneys for families of the men killed in the second blast have said a similar suit will be filed when MESA's investigation is complete. Cook, in a telephone interview from his Washington office, said MESA would issue its official report on the twin explosions later this summer.

TVA Issues Bid Invitations

— DRAKESBORO, Ky. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority says it has issued bid invitations for a coal-washing plant to meet sulfur dioxide emission limits at its Paradise Steam Plant near here.

TVA says the coal-washing plant will be one of the largest ever built in this country. The project will take some three years to finish and a work force of 500 will be involved at the peak of construction. The plant is expected to cost about $50 million.

TVA said the plant is one of several major construction projects involved in its program to meet sulfur dioxide emission limits at its coal burning power plants.

The plant will have a capacity of 2,000 tons of coal an hour, TVA said. TVA said the Paradise plant has been the most economical coal burning power plant in its system.

Bids will be opened in August and construction is expected to begin in the fall.

Marshall County Youth May Be Youngest Racer In Nation

CALVERT CITY, Ky. (AP) — At 15 — too young for a driver's license in most states, Timmy Brown already is a winner in the rough and tumble, no-holds-barred world of dirt track stock car racing.

Brown, who'll be a sophomore at Marshall County High School this fall, may be one of the youngest rookie race drivers in the nation.

"At least I don't know of any other drivers around here as young as me," he says.

He spends his Saturday nights tooling a 400-horsepower car around the three-eighths of a mile dirt oval at Paducah International Raceway.

Brown, who learned to drive at age 13, already is used to the winner's circle. He took his first checkered flag last month when he was 14.

"I was determined to win a race before I turned 15," he says. "And I made it just two days before my birthday."

He competes in this freewheeling style of racing against veterans, some more than twice his age.

"I guess you could say it's tough out on the track, but everybody treats me okay," he said. "The older drivers are very helpful and give me tips on my driving. And their mechanics help us out with any problems we have with the car."

The youth's pit crew consists of his father, Roy, who runs an auto parts shop here and in Paducah, and Donnie Russell, Bill Owen, Bud Jenkins, and Kenny Bryant.

Brown's racer is a striped 1972 Camaro that bears only a superficial resemblance to the street version of the popular sports car. Fat eight-inch wide tires protrude from the fender wells. Beneath the hood is a 377-cubic inch engine. In the cockpit, padded steel roll bars and aircraft-type seat belts and shoulder harnesses serve as crash protection.

"We compete in the sportsman class," he says. "The only difference between us and the hotter super stocks is that they use a four barrel carburetor and wider tires."

Still, Brown's car is hot enough to turn a lap around the banked track in 21 seconds. On the straightaways, he says it approaches 90 miles per hour.

Brown has driven about 20 races this season and has finished first in three and second in five.

Brown's father says his son has talked about racing for several years "so when the season started this year he just went out and did it."

The youth's father said his son scared him the first time he slipped behind the wheel of his racer.

"He shot out of the pits with the motor revving and the tires spinning," said Roy Brown. "I thought he was going to take it easy but he didn't slow down for two laps and only then when I went out and flagged him down."

Thus far, the youth has escaped a major crash. He has won about $500 this season and has gained a considerable local following.

"Kids, especially girls, are always running up to talk to Timmy and get him to sign autographs," Roy Brown said.

Black Representation Not In Proportion To Population Says Agency

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's total of 67 black elected officials in 1976 was a 157.7 per cent increase over 1969, but the state needs an additional 372 black office holders for proportional representation, a state agency says.

Blacks made up 7.2 per cent of Kentucky's population in 1976 and 6.6 per cent of its voting population, but only one per cent of its 6,561 elected officials, according to a report by the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights.

"I would say Kentucky has lagged quite a bit in recent years behind some other states," said Lyman Johnson, retired head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Louisville branch.

Kentucky ranked 15th among the 50 states in its number of black officials in 1970, but since has slipped to 23rd place, the report stated.

Eleven of the 22 states ahead of Kentucky were southern states, including Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

"We have brought to Louisville some (black) elected officials from these other states and they chided us," Johnson said.

Johnson and Edgar Wallace, state NAACP director, agreed that racism does not entirely account for the low number of black officials.

"I think part of our difficulty now is that some (blacks) who are capable are reluctant to come out and sacrifice," Johnson said. "Sometimes you have to give up a reasonable income to campaign."

"To run for public office requires considerable personal sacrifice, in terms of your family, business, or whatever," said Wallace, a at-large candidate for the Urban County Council here.

"The first step is the hard one for a black candidate, whether it be to offer himself for a position or to be appointed to a position," Wallace said. "If he can do the job, the white population will accept him and probably reelect him. If you can't do the job, it doesn't matter whether you're black or white."

"Some capable negroes are shirking their responsibilities to come out and help," Johnson said. "And some who would like to wear the armor are not competent."

There also are other realities in a campaign, Wallace said, the most important being organization and financial backing.

Noting that only five of Kentucky's 67 elected black officials were women in 1976, Wallace said women, both black and white, traditionally had more trouble gathering support for a campaign.

Although the NAACP must remain nonpartisan and does not endorse candidates, NAACP officials would like to see more women in government, Wallace said.

Ed Ray, a naturalist at the Land Between The Lakes Environmental Education Center, explains to visitors last weekend the characteristics of birds found on the 170,000-acre public demonstration area run by the Tennessee Valley Authority in western Kentucky and Tennessee. The Environmental Education Center conducts many tours dealing with the plants and wildlife of the area. A list of these special activities can be found in "Preview."

Withdrawal Of Nominations To Historic Register Requested

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Historic Preservation Officer Eldred Melton has asked that the nomination of a part of the Paris Pike and four other districts to the National Register of Historic Places be withdrawn to give property owners a chance to comment.

A six-mile section of the Lexington to Paris road was placed on the national register May 16 at the recommendation of the Kentucky Historic Preservation Review Board. Nominations of the other districts still are pending before the National Park Service.

Mrs. Melton asked the park service to return all five nominations so that Kentucky can comply with the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

Donna Hopkins, resource protection officer for the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said Monday the recall is a "simple technicality." She said she doubted the board would decide against nominating any of the districts when it reconsiders them in the fall.

Mrs. Melton could not be reached for comment, but said in a prepared statement that the recall was necessary to comply with the provision of a federal law which says property owners in districts nominated to the register should have a "reasonable opportunity" for comment.

The law also requires owners of a nominated historical property being used for commercial purposes to be notified of potential tax benefits.

The law provides tax incentives for restoring historic buildings for commercial use.

"In my opinion, home owners of individual property within the historic districts may not have been given sufficient notice of the intent to nominate their property or a reasonable opportunity to comment," Mrs. Melton said.

"By bringing these districts back, we intend to fulfill these conditions to the satisfaction of the law."

Meanwhile, Stuart Victor, assistant to state Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson, said Monday the agency had not been informed of the recall.

"Without having some better idea of what it's all about, we could not comment," he said.

The next regular meeting of the Historic Preservation Review Board is scheduled Sept. 10. The board will hold a special meeting June 21 to discuss nomination procedures to comply with the Tax Reform Act.

The other districts in question are Cincinnati and Southern Depot in Scott County; West Main Street in Jefferson County; Minorsville in Scott County; and Shelby County Courthouse and Main Street Commercial District in Shelby County.

The designation of a section of the pike as a historic district fueled controversy over the state's plan to widen the road.

The Transportation Department has proposed widening the highway to four lanes with a 40-foot median, to facilitate traffic and safety. Opponents say there has not been enough study of alternate routes, and that the plan would wipe out hundreds of stately shade trees and miles of hand-built stone walls as well as eat chunks out of valuable horse farms.

Senators Say State Shorted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Sens. Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Wendell Ford of Kentucky say the government has shortchanged the Bluegrass state by about $7 million in public works job money.

They said Monday they've asked Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps for an immediate recalculation of the state's share of the phase two allocation of the public jobs funds.

They pointed out that the statutory minimum allocation for Kentucky is $30 million — some $7 million less than allocated to Kentucky counties and communities last week.

"Officials from several communities have contacted us indicating that they believe they are entitled to local public works funds based on the distribution formula established under the law," the senators said. "Needless to say, this error will cause great inequities and much consternation among areas with very high unemployment that did not receive initial funding."

"As you know, the timetable for this program affords applicants no delays in resubmitting previous projects or developing new ones," they told Mrs. Kreps. "We look forward to hearing from you at the earliest possible date and trust these inequities will be taken care of immediately."

Officials Counter Fire Theory

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (AP) — Two medical officials have countered the theory that victims of the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire, which claimed 162 lives, could have died from toxic gases given off by burning plastics.

Dr. George Nichols, Cincinnati, who will become Chief Medical Examiner for Kentucky July 1, defended Campbell County Coroner Dr. Fred Stine's decision against requiring autopsies for all the victims.

"Dr. Stine is being vilified for doing an excellent job under the circumstances. He shouldn't be blamed for anything," said Dr. Nichols, presently attached to the Hamilton County Forensic Center in Cincinnati. Dr. Nichols will be responsible for establishing procedures for all Kentucky coroners.

Nichols said Dr. Stine acted properly in seeking first to identify the victims. He said autopsies for all the victims would not have produced any valid scientific data.

"Even if they did find toxic combustion products in the people's systems, they would not know if that came from combustion of the clothing people were wearing," Dr. Nichols said. He said investigators would have to know exactly where each victim was when stricken and what was burning.

Dr. Nichols discounted reports that cyanide gases from burning chairs in the Zebra Room, where the fire presumably started, could have killed victims.

"What we are talking about is small amounts of very toxic substances. It seems to me that the major toxin in this fire was carbon monoxide," he said.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR THURSDAY,
JUNE 16, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES
(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) Some misleading influences. Take no promises for granted. Get everything in writing and, above all, be cautious in dealing with strangers.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 to May 21) Your impressions about certain acquaintances will be valid, but don't spread the word. Some information is best kept secret.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21) A day in which a personal ambition may be happily fulfilled. You finally get the backing you wanted — and needed.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23) Delays and obstacles may be the order of the day but such challenges can boomerang in your favor if you stress your determination and foresight.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23) Being in the right place at the right time could be the key to a new opportunity or an adventurous experience on this highly stimulating day. Keep all senses alert.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) Warning signals are up where behavior and disposition are concerned! Without realizing it, you could be too quick to prescribe or criticize — with unhappy results.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) Family concerns and personal interests share beneficial planetary influences. Day's harvest should please.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) Avoid haste. You have plenty of time to handle obligations. Heed the suggestions of loved ones. They could prove extremely valuable.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Do not be swayed by your emotions. Objectivity will bring you a clearer view of all situations. A romantic involvement will call for an extremely perceptive eye.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may find that you have cluttered your schedule with a lot of nonessentials. Revise, cut them out, and eliminate waste motion, too. Stay on course!

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Certain suggestions must be ignored, others accepted quickly. The Aquarian's gift for seeing through a maze of complexities should result in a field day.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be discriminating. No matter what the situation, don't judge on surface appearances only. Don't completely disregard first impressions of strangers, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a highly receptive mind, a remarkable memory and unusual adaptability. Also extremely foresighted, you have a talent for guessing "what's coming" and being able to make changes in decisions and actions at a moment's notice. Your versatility is outstanding; also generosity, imagination, progressiveness and inventiveness. There are many fields in which you could excel career-wise, but you would probably be happiest in art, literature or music. Birthdate of: Gustavus V, King of Sweden.
